

Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR) International Macroeconomics and Finance Programme Meeting

15-16 November 2018

Venue: National Bank of Belgium, Brussels

Organising Committee:

Philippe Bacchetta (HEC - Université de Lausanne and CEPR)

Robert Kollmann (Université Libre de Bruxelles and CEPR)

Raf Wouters (National Bank of Belgium and CEPR)

The third CEPR Annual Meeting of the International Macroeconomics Programme (IMF) will take place 15-16 November 2018 and will be hosted by the National Bank of Belgium and Université Libre de Bruxelles.

The International Macroeconomics and Finance (IMF) Programme is one of the three successors to the International Macroeconomics (IM) Programme, and this meeting replaces the Macroeconomics of Global Interdependence (MGI) Meeting.

We invite submissions on the following topics:

- International macroeconomics and stabilisation policy
- International financial architecture
- Currency and financial/debt crises
- Exchange rates, policy regimes and currency unions
- Trade, finance and macroeconomic dynamics
- Currency and international financial markets

Funding

The sponsoring institutions can cover accommodation and travel according to the new CEPR guidelines for presenters and discussants. However, there is limited travel and accommodation funding available, and we would like to facilitate the participation of young researchers. We thus encourage more senior participants to use their own grants to cover costs. Please indicate in your reply whether you will be able to cover your own costs, or whether you will require funding to attend.

How to apply

Please submit your paper or indicate your interest in participating at the following link:
